Canada Day donations slow for full lineup of events

Donations are slow coming in this year, but Elk Point's Canada Day Committee is confident that Elk Point will dig deep to provide sufficient funding to carry out the full lineup of events and keep Elk Point celebrating Canada's 133rd birthday from 8 a.m. until the wee hours of July 2.

At press time, the revenue was still about $1700 short of the $5590 budgeted for the event.

Canada Day activities will actually get underway this Sunday, June 25 when the Canada Day Gospel Concert returns due to popular demand, at 7:30 p.m. in the Elementary School gym.

The schedule for July 1 features events to please all ages, with all the old favorites back for another year.

Plans for the Chamber of Commerce Pancake Breakfast, this year situated in the Servus Credit Union parking lot, are well in hand, with the breakfast going from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m.

Then it's time to line up for the Lions-sponsored parade, with judging of to take place at 10:30 north of the arena, and the parade beginning at 11:00 a.m., preceded by the bicycles at 10:45.

After the parade, youngsters will want to visit with Popcorn the Clown at the arena, while the grownups check out the Craft Show and grab a bite from the food concessions sponsored by the Christian Community Church and a student group. The Craft Show still has room for more vendors, and anyone interested in booking a table can call Margaret White at 724-3193.

At 1 p.m., the second annual Canada day Soapbox Derby will be all set to roll down 51 St. in front of the arena. Racers will be divided into two age groups, 10 to 16 and 16 and over, and pre-registered racers will receive a commemorative t-shirt, with trophies going to the winners. To pre-register or for more information, call Dwayne Vogel at 724-4620.

The outdoor stage show is slated for 2 p.m., beginning with a flag raising ceremony, and will feature a variety of local, multicultural entertainment. The Royal Purple will be on hand to serve up their traditional Canada Day cake.

The day is far from over at that point, however. Elk Point and District Lions Club and the Elk Point Volunteer Fire Department are co-sponsoring a dance and beerfest with a double bandstand featuring Route 66 and Country Fyre, beginning at 9 p.m. in the A. G. Ross Arena. The dance and beer garden are in separate areas, which means all ages are welcome to attend and enjoy the music.

At 11 p.m., the evening sky will come alive with fireworks, winding up with a special grand finale in honor of Canada Day 2000.

Mill rates down marginally for 2000

Elk Point Town Council set their 2000 mill rates at a special meeting on June 9, with rates in all categories down a fraction of a mill.

Residential and Farm Land mill rates dropped to 16.992 from 16.924, Non-Residential Vacant to 31.027 from 31.029, MD of St. Paul Foundation to 19.590 from 19.592, Apartment and 4-Plexes to 31.410 from 31.411 and Non-Residential Improvements and Linear to 28.416 from 28.417.

Town coping with landfill change

Elk Point Town Council met twice in four days to deal with a heavy June agenda.

At the Friday, June 9 special meeting of Council, the immediate future of Elk Point's waste handling was dealt with, as Council agreed to enter into an agreement with the Town of St. Paul to haul all of Elk Point's garbage to their landfill. The Town agreed to get four big bins for metal, white metal, tires and miscellaneous garbage, plus four smaller bins for grass clippings. The Town was also authorized to purchase a dozen compost bins to sell at cost to town residents, in hope that this will also help to decrease the volume of waste being hauled to the landfill. The bins will be located at the Town's sewer lift station, just across the railway tracks on Highway 41, and will be open for use on Saturdays. Residential garbage will still be picked up on Thursdays as usual.

Mayor Buck noted that although there was no increase in taxes this year, the Town may have to increase the garbage fees this year or next year to cover increased transportation costs.

Also at that meeting, Council agreed to write to the Northern Lights Library System, advising the NLLS Board that they would be receptive to taking title to the large warehouse at a token price and making sure that the use of it would be compatible to the library's operation, or if there is difficulty in dividing the building title, the Town would enter into a long term lease at a token price and would pick up all costs associated with both options.

In matters arising from the Public Works report, Public Works Superintendent Ron Fraess outlined costs for fencing and seeding of the soccer fields. Fencing between the golf course and soccer field and the soccer field and parking area was approved to a total cost of $11,000. The West Cemetery is also to receive a new fence.

Increased density of oil well drilling immediately adjacent to town was high on the Monday, June 12 agenda. Council has received legal opinion on their responsibilities in regards to Union Pacific Resources application to the Alberta Energy and Utilities Board, and are not obligated to send a letter of approval, to take a position on the matter or seek feedback from Town residents.

One concern the Town has regarding the drilling of more wells near town is the potential for increased use of emergency

Traffic enforcement blitz goes tomorrow

On Wednesday, June 21, 2000, the Elk Point RCMP Detachment and the St. Paul Highway Patrol are planning a traffic violation enforcement blitz.

The focus of the blitz will be on seat belt and stop sign violations. This is prompted by a recent survey that indicated only 69.2% of people on country roads wear their seat belts, as compared to 89% of city drivers, and 39.6% of rural drivers do not stop at stop signs.

Please note that there will be a zero tolerance rule in effect on June 21 regarding the ticketing of individuals responsible for the above mentioned infractions.

Results of the RCMP's efforts will be posted following June 21.

Province approves creation of Regional Waste Management Commission

By Dennis Bergheim
Manager

The Alberta Government recently approved a request by all municipal authorities in the St. Paul / Smoky Lake / Elk Point communities to combine resources to cost effectively meet recent requirements with respect to environmental sound waste disposal.

In a pro-active, co-operative, regional initiative, the two villages (Wilna and Waskatenau), three towns (St. Paul, Elk Point and Smoky Lake) and two counties (St. Paul and Smoky Lake) have established the Evergreen Regional Waste Management Services Commission to develop means for facilitating disposal of waste created by residents and businesses in the two-county region.

The Minister of Municipal Affairs appointed the following members to the Commission: Ray Danyluk, Chairman, representing the County of St. Paul; John Trefanenko, Vice - Chairman, representing the Town of St. Paul; Dareld Cholak, Smoky Lake County; Peter Goruk, Town of Smoky Lake; Ed Buck, Town of Elk Point; Ray Melendez-Duke, Village of Wilna; and Jim Cosowan, representing the village of Waskatenau.

Dennis Bergheim of St. Paul has been appointed Manager of the Commission.

Creation of the Commission was initiated by more stringent regulations imposed on waste disposal following the change of responsibility from Health to Environment. The waste management sites of all municipalities within the two-county region were audited to identify inadequacies of the current disposal practices and a waste management study was undertaken to develop a unified, coordinated approach to resolving these problems on a localized and regional basis.

The Commission's study found there are too many household garbage disposal sites located within the region. As a result, the Commission plans to change most of these sites into transfer sites and to develop one regional household garbage disposal site. This site will also be for other materials such as tires, scrap steel, household appliances, batteries, etc. from the transfer sites.

The Commission also will explore any recycling options that will reduce the amount of waste being buried.

The Commission is currently looking at possible locations for a centralized waste disposal site to serve all residents of the region. We are analyzing all critical data (water formation, soil types, topography, etc.) to determine preliminary locations. We will host public meetings to ensure all residents are fully aware of all developments and have an opportunity to provide input.

"The garbage, we as residents produce, is our garbage," states Commission Chairman Ray Danyluk. "It is our responsibility to deal with it. Our local municipalities have to ensure our waste is handled in the most environmentally yet cost effective manner possible and with the least inconvenience to residents."

Fathers are such very important people!

By Deanna Easthope
FCSS Director

All you fathers out there - how was your "Father's Day"? I sure hope it was a good day for you!

I hope all you Dads out there realize how important you are to all of us. Father's Day has become the day to celebrate this feeling we have for you.

I found a poem by Fred Toothaker that expresses how important a Dad is to a boy.

"A Dad is What He Needs!"

A boy needs more'n anything
a dad t' guide his hand,
An' help with problems, now an' then,
in ways he'll understand.
He needs him for companionship,
an' counsel he can give,
An' too, for teachin' him th' way
a growin' boy should live.
It's necessary for a boy
t' have a dad who heeds Th' calls for such assistance as a youngster often needs.

A lad can't do without a dad,
an' keep on havin' fun,
Or win for self th' battles that some other lads have won.
He never has a chance t' brag
'bout things his dad can do;
Nor has an ear that he can tell his private troubles to.
Indeed, a lad must have a dad
t' guide him ev'ry day, An' keep him from temptation which so often comes his way.

This poem is written about a Dad and his son. As a daughter, I feel it would be easy to substitute daughter for son. No matter who we are, our Dads are very important to all of us. Their guidance and direction given in their own way has a love behind it that is not often expressed in simple "I love you" words.

Meanwhile, Father's Day has passed. However, to show gratitude to our fathers can be an everyday happening. We don't have to give them gifts and celebrate every day. What is important is that we recognize and take responsibility in showing our fathers that we appreciate them. So to all the dads out there, we appreciate you, and say thank you for being you services. UPR has offered to provide oilfield fire-fighting training to the Town's volunteer fire department. They recently donated $10,000 to STARS air ambulance, and have advised the Town that this is in lieu of an annual donation to the Elk Point Airport. They have volunteered the time of one of their employees to sit on the Airport Commission.

UPR does not anticipate the increased drilling to have any substantial impact on traffic in Elk Point's Industrial Park, but Mayor Buck feels the road issue "is a big thing." He plans to speak to UPR in the near future.

The outcome of a meeting between the Lakeland Regional Health Authority and ambulance authorities in their jurisdiction was also on the minds of Council. The meeting, the same night as Council, was to discuss the possibility of tendering out inter-hospital transfers, and since an estimated 70% of ambulance revenues come from these transfers, this could be an insurmountable obstacle for local ambulance authorities. Mayor Buck put forth a motion that the Town write to the Minister of Health stating the Town's concerns regarding what the tendering of these transfers would do to our local ambulance service.

The Metis Nation Voyage Back to Batoche will visit our area in early July, with an overnight camp at Fort George and Buckingham House. Council agreed to host a barbecue at the Forts for these visitors on their historic journey.

Mayor Buck will attend an upcoming conference and trade show sponsored by the Metis Settlements General Council.

Wash those fruits and veggies

By Linda Fox, RD
Elk Point Health Centre

Are you wondering how safe your cantaloupe is? And your strawberries, apples, lettuce, and so on, and so on... Last week in the United States, and outbreak of food-borne illness was traced to eating cantaloupe. How could that be? We don't usually associate food "poisoning" with fruits and veggies, do we?

The connection becomes clear, though, when one thinks of how cantaloupe is grown. In this case, the soil was fertilized with cattle manure, and the fruit grows on the ground. The mature fruit is picked and delivered to stores, probably with traces of "germ"-contaminated soil hiding in the rough skin of the fruit. The people affected may have sliced the fruit without adequately washing it, thereby spreading the organisms onto the cut surfaces. Eating these germs can cause illness, especially in vulnerable people such as the very young and the elderly.

Could this have been prevented? You betcha!

All fruits and vegetables should be washed under cold, running water. For rough skinned fruit or veggies, such as cantaloupe, use a vegetable brush to remove dirt from the surface. Ensure that all traces of dirt are removed from fruits and vegetables. For example, hold lettuce under cold, running water, sepa-

With the goal of helping young people focus on drug awareness, the Elks and Royal Purple Lodges of Canada promote and support this national contest. They believe that encouraging Canadian youth to express themselves on drug awareness topics is an excellent way to reinforce positive choice. Principals, health officials, teachers and other youth leaders are asked to encourage young people to participate in this contest, beginning with the local level of competition.

This year, the Grade 8 and 10 CTS (Information Processing) classes submitted a total of 55 essays for judging. Of these, eight were sent to the Provincial chairman and committee for further evaluation. Grade 10 finalists were Bronwyn Bilak, Kali Cousins, Romy Rohner and Leanne Wilson. Grade 8 finalists were Jonathan Bury, Janina

We just started school a couple of weeks ago. It's not as hard as I thought it would be, but I am sure it will get harder soon. Most of my friends aren't in my classes anymore. They're in all the 13 courses. That's all right. We get to see each other at breaks and we get phys. ed. together. That's good, or else I'd be so lonely all day. Math is actually pretty hard. They didn't pressure me into trying it, which was really good. I wonder what I would look like smoking? It actually looks kind of cool when they do it. Maybe next time I'll try it.

Club president Peter Danyluk thanked the leaders and parents for their help during the year, and told his fellow members about the benefits and joys of going to 4-H camp and participating in all that 4-H has to offer. To wind up his final year in 4-H, he plans to work as a camp counsellor as well as going on the 4-H trip to the Northwest Territories and a 4-H exchange to Ontario. The 4-H experience, he concluded, is "more than you ever imagined."

Overall leader Lorraine Danyluk listed many accomplishments for the year, from the first-ever team demonstrations and carcass judging to the emergence of Lea Wruth as a top-notch birdhouse judge. Shawn Robinson, Janina Laboucane, Leanne Ference and Michelle Leckie were praised for

North Saskatchewan Watershed Alliance meets at Forts

North Saskatchewan Watershed Alliance, a recently formed group dedicated to the encouragement of community-based stewardship activities in the North Saskatchewan Watershed in Alberta, hosted one of two June general meetings at Fort George and Buckingham House Interpretive Centre. Representatives of organizations and individuals interested in watershed conservation and management were invited to take part.

The second meeting, the following day, was held at Rocky Mountain House. Theme of both meetings was "Recreation, Tourism and Culture in the North Saskatchewan Watershed."

Former Elk Point resident Adele Mandryk, B.Sc. Environmental, is the manager of the Alliance, which is an association of members from Alberta's portion of the North Saskatchewan watershed who share a concern for the health of the land and water. It provides a forum for sharing information and experience about issues affecting the watershed and supports and initiates activities with a positive impact on the area.

Much of the morning session was taken up with NSWA's plans for the year. Among their primary goals are to foster wise use and integrated management of land and water resources in the North Saskatchewan's subwatersheds to ensure their protection and enhancement and to share information and promote understanding among the public at large about activities affecting the protection and enhancement of these subwatersheds. A subwatershed is defined as the land drained by smaller tributaries, such as creeks, into a larger body of water. The NSWA has identified 17 subwatersheds comprising two primary river basins within the North Saskatchewan watershed.

Another goal is to coordinate information about watershed protection and enhancement initiatives that are occurring in the watershed, with two of the objectives to help solicit funding for both programs and specific projects, and to encourage collaborative action among members.

The NSWA's top priority is to be a "State of the Basin" report, which will document the current status of the basin, identify and prioritize major issues and data gaps, and focus projects on those with the highest priority. Two local presenters were part of the meeting at FGBH. Marvin Bjornstad spoke on behalf of the Friends of the Forts and the Elk Point Historical Society, and outlined the historical importance of the river to this area, along with its recreation and tourism potential in conjunction with the Forts and the Iron Horse Trail.

Jamie Gingrich, environmental coordinator from Canadian Salt's Lindbergh works, told the Alliance about the plant's solution mining operation, which takes in 3000 US gallons of river water per minute for their cooling process and then returns it to the river. A small amount is also treated for use as potable water and in the plant's steam boilers. Water is tested coming from and returning to the river.

Marjorie Robinson, president of the Midwest

Tourism Group, asked in the afternoon question period, how tourism will fit in to the NSWA's efforts, and was told that tourism is a stakeholder industry with a vested interest in the well-being of the watershed. The planned recreation guide would be a direct benefit to tourism in the Midwest, which straddles the river from east of the Saskatchewan border to west of Elk Point. Ms Robinson said she sees "people wishing they could take advantage" of the river's recreational opportunities, and sees a need for "more organized facilities." She added that "for people from other countries, our river is such a special thing." She was pleased to hear that overland trails in the watershed could become part of the guide, and noted that Midwest has members "all along the watershed" in this area. She agreed that the watershed "needs a watchdog" to protect it and oversee its management.

The next meeting of NSWA's general membership is planned for the fall, and will be held in a central location. The steering committee working on NSWA projects meets monthly.

$9 M school for Frog Lake

By Keith Robinson
Staff Writer

Although it took 15 years to make a new school a reality, Frog Lake First Nation is finally seeing their dream come true.

Last Friday, the official sod-turning ceremony took place with many elders and council members on-hand as well as many school children.

The construction had already begun with the removal of land, but it will still take 14 months to complete.

What makes the project so unique is that it began in 1985 when their existing school couldn't accommodate the overcrowding and growing number of the students.

But it wasn't until 1997 that the government actually listened and saw firsthand that the shrinking school definitely had a need for space.

The school board, along with Frog Lake resident Clarence Faithful, had to provide many precise details to ensure the plan would proceed.

said Faithful. "The hours will be divided between many people for the use of plumbers, electricians and laborers during the construction of the school."

The total price tag for the school is approximately $10 million, which is being given through system to the new school.

Chief Elmer Thomas Abraham says it's great for the community, especially the students.

"Finally the day has come. It took a long time, but the main thing is it's being done. Honestly, it's a great feeling to have money to build a new school."

Unfortunately, Abraham says they lost some students this past year to other schools, but he's optimistic they will return home to finish school.

Aside from the local students who will be attending the school, Abraham says they will take students from Fishing Lake if they desire.

Currently, students from Fishing Lake are traveling to Elk Point every day.

With the general contract, it will employ many residents of Frog Lake.

Aside from $9 million for the school, the remaining funds will be used to help extend a new water line from the

Manning on Canadian Alliance campaign trail

His eyes still tend to light up when he says "Reform," but Preston Manning is fully committed to the newly formed Canadian Alliance party, and is doing his utmost to become its leader.

Manning was in Bonnyville on Saturday, and spoke to a good crowd of Alliance members ranging in age from seniors to teens. He was introduced by local MP Leon Benoit, who called him "a leader who has taken great risks, and formed the Reform party against great odds. His vision for this country encouraged those who formed the Vegreville constituency association and sent Deborah Grey to Ottawa as the first Reform Member of Parliament." Grey, who represented Beaver River after constituency boundaries were redrawn, is not seeking the Alliance leadership because she "thinks Preston is the man for the job," Benoit said.

Manning said Beaver River should be "very proud of Deborah Grey," who became the first female leader of the opposition when he stepped down to campaign for party leadership.

The Canadian Alliance is "an attempt to get under one roof, people who believe in fundamental issues," and with the leadership vote just a week away, he felt that "now is the time to ask questions" about those issues.

One question Manning has been asked is whether the Alliance is "just thinking about a bigger opposition or aiming to go for the government. We're tired of settling for the opposition where you can't win a vote. I think we should be going for the government."

The characteristics wanted in a prime minister are an important factor in choosing a party leader, Manning said. Having attended 157 meetings since March 27, he has found "many people would like to see a democrat, not an autocrat" as their national leader, a person who "is not an embarrassment to Canada on the international stage, and a leader of change not a resistor of change... I'm ready for that job."

Manning says the next prime minister has to be able to get people to work together to heal health care and to "unify the country like it's never been unified before."

He feels the key to the Canadian Alliance forming the next government is "to get people working together. If we put together a team, the team can win. Each candidate is strong, and we have all agreed to be on the team whether we're the quarterback or not. Without the team, none of us can win. With a coalition, we all can."

Questions from the floor ranged from supreme court appointments and gun control to the national defence policy, from the Triple E senate advocated by Reform to the future of the Canada Pension Plan.

Manning was accompanied by his wife Sandra, who thanked the constituency association for the opportunity to "get up close and personal with people who care." Regarding the leadership vote, she said, "if your heart is telling you to go ahead and trust Preston one more time, but seeds of doubt have been planted in your mind, go with your heart."

F. G. Miller bands present Music of the Millennium

Music from various decades of the 1900s was presented by the music students of F. G. Miller Junior-Senior High School on June 8, with the "Music of the Millennium" relocated from Mural Park to the F. G. Miller gym due to cool and rainy weather.

The Senior High band presented music from the first four decades: "The Entertainer," reflecting the optimism of 1910, "K-K-K-Katy," from the 1920s, "Glow Worm," popular in the speakeasies and nightclubs of the 1930s, and "When the Caissons Go Rolling Along," in a military mood of the 1940s. Taralee Babenek's mellow saxophone sound was evident in the second and third numbers, while drummer Kyle Frisby highlighted the World War II number.

The Junior High bands saluted the 1950s with "Why Do Fools Fall in Love?" by the Grade 8 and 9s and Mr. Kry's accompanying the Grade 9s on his trumpet in the beautiful "Unchained Melody."

The seniors were back with the 1960s hit, "A Little Help From My Friends," showing the Beatles influence, with Mr. Kry's on guitar.

Also from the 1960s was "The Sound of Music," from the very popular musical movie of the same name, by the Junior High bands, with Mr. Kry's again accompanying them.

Senior and Junior bands combined in the 1970s favorite, "Y.M.C.A." which was much enjoyed by the audience, many of whom joined in on the hand gestures led by Kyle Frisby.

The Senior band offered another '70s favorite, "Give Me That Old Time Rock'n'Roll," that anthem of '50s nostalgia, then moved into the 1980s for "Another One Bites the Dust." Serious guitar players Billy Turner and Kyle Frisby combined their considerable talent for another 1980s number, the hauntingly beautiful "My Guitar Gently Weeps."

The Junior bands closed the show with an old favorite, "Home on the Range."

MUSIC INSTRUCTOR Randall Kry's conducts the combined Junior and Senior bands at the High School band concert.

Drug and alcohol essay wins national honors

ask me if I wanted to try it again, so I asked if I could. When I inhaled I started coughing, and it burned a lot. They told me it was better the second time, so I tried it again. They were right, it didn't burn and I didn't cough. Actually, I really liked it a lot. Maybe I should try smoking a whole cigarette tomorrow all to myself. I guess we'll see.

Sept. 21/99

We got our math tests back today. I did really badly. I went outside at break and had a whole smoke! My friends don't even do that. They all share one. I don't know why. It feels so good after having one. Especially after getting that bad math mark. I really want to have one now, but I won't. I'll wait until tomorrow, I guess.

Sept. 22/99

Today at first break

when my friends and I usually go out for a smoke, they didn't show up. I got a smoke from another girl. She is really nice. We spent break together outside. In phys. ed., my friends told me that they stopped smoking! What a bunch of losers! They told me that I should quit, too. They told me that I didn't know what I was doing! Of course I know what I'm doing. I want to do this! That girl I met at break is in my phys. ed. class, so I stayed with her instead. My other so-called friends can just learn to mind their own business next time.

Sept. 24/99

My friends haven't talked to me since Wednesday. I go outside with my new friend every break and lunch now to have a smoke. I'm going to her house this weekend. I'm going to stay there Saturday night instead of going out with the other girls. It will be better! I got another bad mark on a social test. I forgot all about it since I was with my new friend last night. Oh well, next time I will try harder.

Sept. 27/99

The weekend was the best! Saturday night we went out to this big party in a field. I got so drunk. I have never drunk before. It was so much fun. I met all these new people there. They are all so nice to me. I like them way better than my old friends. I'm going to hang out with them more often.

Oct. 1/99

Today I spent the whole day with all of my new friends. I can't believe how many of them are in my classes! I like this so much better. The other girls that I used to hang around with won't even look at me anymore. I don't even care anymore. To me, they don't even exist.

Oct. 5/99

Today I skipped the last two classes of school. We went down to one of their houses. They brought out a big joint. They asked me if I wanted to have any. I thought it would be all right to try, so I did. Actually, I had a lot. I got so stoned. I stayed there for a long time. When I got home I was all right. I wasn't stoned any more. My mom got real mad at me though for not being home. Also, the school called her and told her that I had skipped class. I am being suspended for three days. That sucks, but mom has to work tomorrow so I am going to go down to their house again during the day. It'll be fun!

Oct. 8/99

My suspension is over tomorrow. I had three tests over the last three days, so I got zeros on all of them. I haven't been doing that great at all lately on anything in school. Oh well, it doesn't really matter anyway. I still have a couple more years to make it up. I have been hanging around with my friends over the last three days. We all got really stoned and everything! We had a lot of beer, too. It was so much fun. I can't believe how much I was missing out on before I met these guys.

Oct. 17/99

I have tutors now for all of my subjects. I hate my mom! She has been so weird lately to me. She's always getting into my personal life. Last night when I came home I was really stoned and drunk and when my mom came over to ask me a question I yelled in her face really loud and I hit her! It wasn't a light tap either! I punched her in the face! I felt really bad, but I guess she deserves it for getting into my personal business. Maybe next time she'll know better.

Oct. 19/99

Mom is going away this weekend and says that I can stay home alone on Saturday night. I am going to have the biggest party ever. Everyone is going to be there! It is going to be the best. I took so much money from the special jar that we have to save money to go on holidays. She doesn't know yet, and she won't because I will put the money back later if I get more. I am going to buy so much beer and marijuana. I just hope that I don't get caught!

Oct. 23/99

Saturday night my mom came home by surprise. Her meeting in the city had been canceled so she came home early. Everybody was so drunk and stoned. I got into so much trouble. I've never been in that much trouble before. She is taking me to counseling tomorrow. I really don't want to go. It's going to suck. Besides, I don't even have a problem. Nothing is going to change.

Oct. 27/99

I haven't been able to smoke, drink or do any drugs in four days! It has been so hard. I have been staying in a special hospital in the city to help me with this. I don't feel good. Everything really hurts. The people here tell me that I am going through withdrawal. They say that this is going to hurt, but in the end I will thank them for this. I know I am not thinking that right now. I don't think I am going to write in here again for a while.

Nov. 17/99

I am back in school. I am trying so hard to bring up my grades again. It is going to take so long to do that though. I am not going to give up. My friends that I used to party with won't talk to me now. I don't know why. Maybe it's because I got them in trouble with their parents because of the party. I don't really care. I realized that they were not the kinds of friends that I needed. My old friends won't talk to me either. I am trying to talk to them though. I don't blame them for not forgiving me. I was not a good friend to them at all. I ruined the friendship between me and my mom and all the other people in my family. I also ruined the friendship between all of my friends. It is going to take a very long time to build those again. I am really thankful now that they did stop me from what I was doing. I can see how stupid I really was. I know that I will never walk down that path again!

Doug Irvine second in Dewberry chucks

Lindbergh's Doug Irvine pulled up from a fourth place finish Saturday night to streak to the finish line for Sunday's first place day money, which added up to second place overall as the Canadian Professional Chuckwagon Association visited Dewberry this weekend.

Irvine and his B & R

Eckels rig shaved 29/100ths of a second off his Saturday running time of 1:08.62 to clock in at 1:08.33 on Sunday, just 1/100 ahead of show winner Wayne Knight.

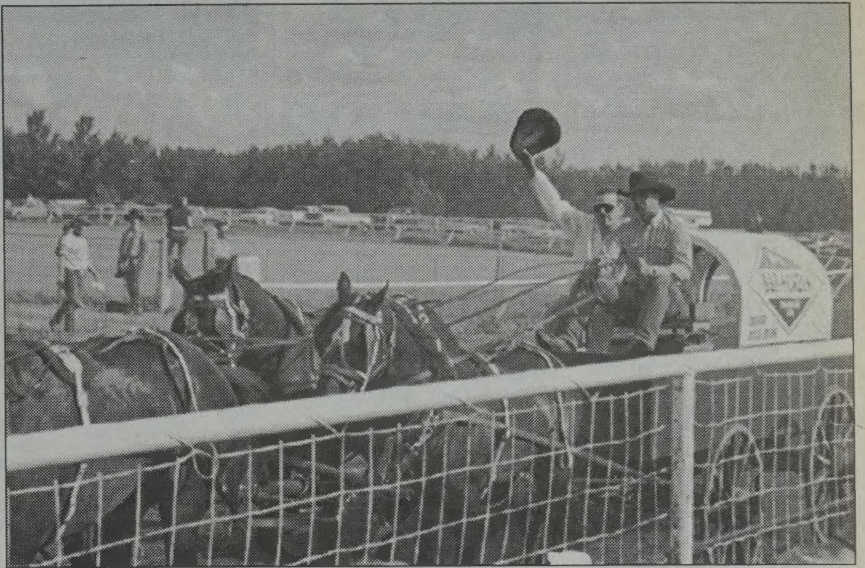

Leo Tournier was third overall, with Jim Knight fourth and Stu Napper fifth.

Knight had the fastest time of the meet on Saturday night, with a 1:07.90 run for his Mac Well Servicing/Hardy Excavating outfit in the 16th heat. This gave him the Rafter A7 Livestock trophy, in addition to the Best Barreling trophy donated by Dewberry Data Services and a cash prize from the Dewberry Hotel. He and his outriders, Ross Knight and Doug Irvine, took home the meet's championship trophies from Border Credit Union. Knight was also presented with the Allan Bensmiller Memorial buckle.

The meet's Best Outrider was Darren Mitsuing, who received the Goldsmith Family trophy and cash from the Dewberry Hotel.

Bert Croteau picked up two trophies, for the Most Sportsmanlike Driver, donated by Lindsay Everest's Gooseneck Services, and for the Best Dressed Outfit, donated by UFA Isert Petroleum, with a cash prize from the Co-operators. The Hard Luck Driver award went to Ray Mitsuing, in the form of cash donated by E-Can Oilfield Services,

The White Sox score big in Father's Day double-header

By Doug Bassett
Review Sports

Tuesday night, in between showers, the Midget Sox were in Two Hills with an easy 13-3 win, Lynden "Junior" Krankowski with a triple bagger.

On one of the few nice days this year, a beautiful Father's Day Sunday afternoon, the Sox hosted Sherwood Park in a double-header. The Sox, with Dustin "Bones" Yaremkevich on the mound, held a three run lead into the top of the seventh, when Sherwood Park put together a rally. The Sox, unable to handle the pressure, with a rash of errors, found themselves down by one run going into the bottom of the seventh. Runners on third and second, the winning run on second with two out, the Sherwood Park catcher trying to pick off Travis "Downtown" Brown leading off third, threw away the ball and the ball game, the Sox winning 12 to 11.

The first game ended with errors, and the second game started with another comedy of errors. The Sox with David Honey on the hill, with three errors, were down by five in the first inning, but got on the sticks and with some real aggressive base running, fought back to take the lead. Out of the bullpen the Sox sent in reliever Melvin Easthope, and never looked back, the Sox winning 20 to 10. Travis "Downtown" Brown with a triple, Preston "Krank" Krankowski with a triple, followed by an in-the-park homer his next time to the plate. Called up from the AAA farm system, bantam player Mark "The Rookie" Letestu playing with the midgets had a batting average of 600 and an on-base average of 800 for the day with 3 RBIs and two big snags in right field.

In girls' action, Jasmine Brown with the big win, pitching her first game over St. Paul on Monday night. Then on the weekend, the girls made it to the semi finals of the zone tryout for the Summer Games, held in Marwayne.

This coming weekend, all of our minor ball teams will be playing in their year-end league tournaments, with the exception of the Sox, who will be in Edmonton to play in their first round of provincial round robins.

We have a change in the Summer Reading Program days. We will be running our program on Mondays for preschool to age 6 and Wednesdays for children aged 7 to 11. I apologize for any incon-

Registration forms will be available soon at the library, so please come down and sign up!

Please Recycle:

The Library is looking for the following items to assist with the Summer Reading Program: cardboard milk containers, yogurt or cottage cheese containers, cereal boxes,

Bergs celebrate diamond anniversary

In spite of the cool and very wet weather outside, the warmth of the large crowd of family, neighbors and friends from far and near surrounded Leonard and Norma Berg as they welcomed all to their diamond wedding anniversary celebration on Sunday, June 11. The open house was held at the Elk Point Seniors Recreation Centre, where visiting, food and reminiscing were enjoyed.

Daughter Vali Hewitt was mistress of ceremonies and introduced the immediate family.

Children present were Harvey Berg of Edmonton and wife Helene, their son Darren and friend Kelly; Howard Berg, wife Ann, their son Rusty, daughter-in-law Lynn and children Mandy and Shelby; Ingrid Jensen, her husband Al and daughter Kim Ghilarducci from Delta, BC; and Vali Hewitt and son Jeff from Calgary. Bergs' oldest son, Blaine, of Chillicothe, Ohio, was unable to attend, but his son Kenny from Calgary was present.

Norma's twin sister, Thelma, who was bridesmaid 60 years ago, traveled from Seattle and was seated at the head table. Other siblings of Norma and Leonard and their families were present to complete the family circle.

Numerous old school friends were present, one of special mention being Wally McDonald and his wife Mary from Sherwood Park. Wally was a neighbor of Norma's early childhood, and a member of the McDonald family band who played at Norma and Leonard's wedding dance at Angle Lake.

Vali called upon Reeve Pat Gordeyko, representing the County of Two Hills, who presented a beautiful engraved scroll. Numerous other scrolls and good wishes were received from the government and from Queen Elizabeth.

Vali called upon family and friends to say a few words and reminisce. Grandsons Kenny Berg, Darren Berg and Jeff Hewitt all recalled the good times spent with their grandparents on the farm.

Friend Arnold Olsen, reminisced about the good old days with his usual wit!

Norma responded and compared their life together to the Olympic logo, with entwining circles of loving family, school friends, neighbors, their church, the circle of co-workers at Elk Point Hospital, the longtime friends shared with the Vermilion Horticultural Society, and finally the family rapport with the Elk Point Community Choir.

Now, as the golden years surround them, the Bergs enjoy the comfort of family and neighbors who stand by as caregivers.

Local residents honored at 82nd Lakeland College graduation

About 420 Lakeland College students were recognized during the College's 82nd annual graduation ceremonies on Saturday, June 10.

Carrie Piotrowski of Elk Point received her Early Childhood Development certificate - with distinction - during the ceremony. She's not the first person in her family to graduate from Lakeland College - her mother, Linda Piotrowski, is a member of the Class of 1982.

Others from Elk Point and area graduates include: Kimberley Seward, Lindbergh - Animal Health Technology diploma; Bonnie Fairbairn, Elk Point - Business Administration - Accounting and Financial Planning diploma; Armina Kinjerski, Lindbergh - Business Administration - AgriBusiness diploma; LoAnne Shiers, Elk Point

Office Administration certificate; Nicole Poitras, Elk Point - Interior Design Assistant diploma; and Roscoe Sanders, Heinsburg - Agricultural Mechanics and Heavy Equipment Technician.

Degrees, diplomas and certificates were presented to students in Lakeland College's six Centres of Excellence - Agricultural Sciences, Business and Computer Studies, Environmental Sciences, Human Services, Liberal and Performing Arts, and Trades and Technology. Students from both the Vermilion and Lloydminster campuses were recognized during the event.

Twenty three of the graduates are the children or grandchildren of Lakeland College alumni, and four of the graduates had both a parent and grandparent graduate from the college.

QUIETER WELL MOTOR - Shannon Ostapovich of Kudu Industries Ltd. shows off the new, completely enclosed diesel power unit, which operates much more quietly than conventional well pump motors. The new pump was introduced to the community at a pancake breakfast on June 8, and is mounted on a skid unit holding 250 gallons of fuel, enough to operate the motor for 10 days.
